CONSULS WANT TO SHIFT WAR SCENE IN CHINA

Demand Transfer of Hostilities from International Zone Where Foreigners Cower.

100 KILLLED YESTERDAY

Alien Warships Remain in Whangpoo, Determined To Protect Their Nationals.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4—American, British and French consuls general demanded today that Chinese land forces and Japanese warships withdraw from the vicinity of the international settlement and the French concession, havens for thousands of foreigners in this international city and splattered by artillery shelling in the bitter warfare between Chinese and Japanese.

The consular officials addressed a joint communication to Mayor O. K. Yui, protesting further endangering the international settlement where about 100 civilians were killed yesterday. The mayor sped the representation to the Nanking, central government.

The consular chiefs asked that Chinese troops be withdrawn to the east of Pootung road.

Want Gunboats Shifted

They requested the Japanese naval commander to remove Japanese gunboats to a point beyond the seventh section of the Whangpoo river, to get them out of immediate range of the international areas.

American, British, French and other warships were in the Whangpoo along Shanghai's famous bund, determined to protect their nationals but the war-fagged city steeled itself against the prospect of a more terrifying "reprisal push" by the mighty Nipponese war machine, temporarily stalled by China's big guns.

Great, new fires broke out in Chinese sections of the city today under bombardment by Japanese aircraft. Each side claimed advances in fighting in the Liuhoo-Kiangwan sector, along the mighty Yangtze and down-river from Shanghai proper.

The United States consulate reported reports that Japanese planes dropped 50 bombs on Ningpo, south of Shanghai in Chekiang province.

Emperor Blames Chinese

In Tokyo, Emperor Hirohito declared China had aggravated the situation by failure to understand the true Japanese intentions, which he termed the stabilization of east Asia and the mutual prosperity of China and Japan.

The emperor spoke at the opening of an emergency "war session" of the Japanese parliament.

Reports of revolts in the Japanese dominated Manchukuoan army existed in Shanghai. The latest Chinese dispatch said the entire second division of Manchukuoan army stationed in north Chahar province rebelled and declared its allegiance to China.

While hostilities raged in Shanghai, Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, China's first lady, predicted Japan might come day wage bitter war against the United States or Great Britain.

Chinese Hit Own People

Twenty-one Chinese civilians were wounded and one killed by Chinese anti-aircraft fire which strayed Shanghai's leading residential district on Bubbling well road. A shell fell close to the United States marines barracks.

FIREMEN ANSWER INHALATOR CALL

6-Day-Old Child Revived by Oxygen Treatment.

The city fire department's inhalator was called in today to save the life of 6-day-old Bob Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Williams of 524 West Center street.

In delicate health and suffering from a weak heart, the baby became choked and unable to breathe about 9:30 a. m. today. It began to turn blue and the central fire station was called for the oxygen tank.

After 15 minutes of administration of oxygen, the infant's natural color returned. When the physician arrived he gave it a shot and lung stimulant. The baby's condition makes the physician's action fairly serious, the physician said.

The inhalator was manned by firemen George Fetter, John Gaul and Austin Boyd.

5 INCHES OF RAINFALL HERE

Marion welcomed a miniature cloudburst today in the first rainfall since Saturday, Aug. 21. Rain, which measured 1.45 inches swept over the city about noon, accompanied by an electrical storm, and flooded the streets with a downpour lasting about 45 minutes. Reports of flooded streets on North Main and Davids streets were received at the city sewer and street department, but no serious damage was reported shortly after noon.

The rain Aug. 21, measured 1.75 inches. High humidity preceded the rain, according to Dr. E. H. Hershberger, city weather observer.

Lewis Warns Roosevelt He'll Seek Other Friends

Leaves Question of Split Up to New Deal After Bristling Attack Against Congress and Strike Foes.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—John L. Lewis, rebuking President Roosevelt as a fair weather friend of labor, served notice on the administration today that his Committee for Industrial Organization is prepared to look elsewhere for its political allies.

Lewis, reporting last night in a radio speech of bristling tone that the C.I.O. has enrolled 3,718,000 workers, left up to the new deal high command the question of deciding whether the Democratic party and the C.I.O. shall tread separate paths.

The C.I.O. chief castigated "those who profess to be the keepers of the public conscience" for failure to criticize the "murder of unarmed men" in the recent steel strikes. He added as a warning:

To Choose Friends

"Labor next year cannot avoid the necessity of a political assay of the work and deeds of its so-called friends and its political beneficiaries. It must determine who are its friends in the arena of politics as elsewhere."

He let fly this barb at President Roosevelt:

"It ill behooves one who has supped at labor's table and who has been sheltered in labor's house to curse with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries when they become locked in deadly embrace."

Washington observers regarded this as obviously a reply to the "plague on both your houses" which President Roosevelt bespoke for extremists on each side in the "little steel" strike.

They interpreted it further as a strong statement of Lewis' belief that the administration had "supped at labor's table" by virtue of a $500,000 campaign contribution last year, the largest received by the Democratic national committee.

Refers to Votes

The shelter in "labor's house" they translated as a reference to the widespread support given the President last November when millions of unionists cast their ballots for Mr. Roosevelt.

There was no immediate reply from the administration.

As for the speech as a whole, John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, called it "rather flat and colorless."

Frey said the address was "interesting" because it was "much milder than his last one."

Frey said Lewis' disclaimer of communistic conections with the C. I. O. "was anything but satisfactory and convincing."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and Lewis' rival in the organized labor movement, could not be reached for comment. The A. F. L. on Aug. 31 reported it had 3,600,000 paid-up members.

Calls to Farmers

Lewis did not get into details as to his intentions involving those he said "chant their praises of democracy but who lose no chance to drive their knives into labor's defenseless back."

Suspect in Springfield Police Slaying Caught

Alleged Bandit Found Critically Wounded Is Identified as Man Arrested in Marion in 1933; Authorities Here Aid in Hunt for Springfield Killers.

Another of the bandits sought in connection with the killing of two police officers yesterday near Springfield was reported found today critically wounded in a Marshall, Mich., hospital, according to The Associated Press. He was identified by Sheriff Kellay of Calhoun county, Mich., and Henry Dingledine, 27, whom Marion police said they arrested here in August, 1933, on a breaking and entering charge.

Police said he was arrested here and turned over to Bellefontaine police. They said he gave his name here variously as Henry Devore and Henry Dawson, but that it was finally established as Dingledine.

Sheriff Perl Kellay telephoned that the wounded man, accompanied by two other men, stopped at the farm home of Garrett Sherman, eight miles from Marshall, about 9:30 p. m. yesterday and asked Sherman to call a physician.

The wounded man, described as a son by one of his companions, said he had been shot in a fight with another man and his wife.

All three opposed taking the wounded person to a hospital. After they arrived there, the man who said he was the father gave the physician $50 for hospital expenses and left with his companion. They asked that no publicity be given to the affair, Sheriff Kellay said.

The wounded man, whom the sheriff said he was convinced was Henry Dingledine, had been shot in the right shoulder and arm. His arm bone was shattered. He was expected to recover, but may lose the arm.

State patrolmen and other law enforcement officers of Marion county and surrounding counties were among the scores of agents of the law who formed one of the largest police nets in recent months yesterday in the hunt for the bandits.

City of Marion police, while ready to block any roads if the bandits were reported near here, were held in reserve. When the radio alarm came in yesterday afternoon, they recognized Dingledine's name and found a photograph of him taken at the time of his arrest here. He was sent to the penitentiary from Logan county following his arrest here for a three to 15 year term. He was paroled Oct. 27, 1933.

When arrested here he was found in possession of an automobile reported stolen from Ft. Wayne, Ind., police said.

Lived Near Marysville

Dingledine once lived in the vicinity of Spring Hill in the northwestern part of Champaign county not far from Marysville. The search swung into that section of the state last night when a woman reported two men disappeared into a corn field about 10 miles southwest of Marysville near North Lewisburg after demanding the keys to her automobile. Officers combed the field in vain, then spread out again. Early today nearly 100 state patrolmen and other officers scoured the vicinity of his former home.

Police Director George Abele and Chief of Detectives Walter Sweet left Springfield today with a murder warrant to go to Marshall after Dingledine. Abele said Dingledine's father, Harry, was also being sought in connection with the shooting.

Marion officials had received no further calls to join the search today but were on guard. Yesterday several of them were on patrol most of the afternoon.

Highways Patrolled

Corporal H. W. Sowers of the Marion sub-station of the state patrol was dispatched to the vicinity of Urbana where he took part in road patrol for several hours. Patrolman D. L. Callentine patrolled the main roads leading into Marion from the south and kept in constant touch with city police in event the bandits appeared here.

Gene Geissler and W. H. Willis, deputies of Sheriff Fred F. Miller, were stationed at the intersection of routes 37 and 47 at Richwood for three hours. They blocked both

Garner Is Burke Choice To Run For Presidency

Says Texan Has "Hard Common Sense," Would Fight Third Term.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—Sen. Burke, Democrat of Nebraska, named Vice President Garner today as his choice for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940.

Burke, one of the leaders of the senate fight against President Roosevelt's supreme court bill, said if Garner were "not available" he would want another candidate with "the same qualities of hard common sense."

Burke pledged "full support" for a senate resolution to oppose opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt. Sen. Holt, Democrat of West Virginia, has announced he will submit a resolution at the next session of congress.

RED SOX VICTORY OVER FINDLAY ENDS MARION TITLE HOPES

Second-Place Geyganites To End Season at Marion in Monday Games.

Mansfield's Red Sox yesterday clinched the Ohio State league title by defeating the Findlay Browns 12-6.

The pennant-deciding game came just three days before the close of the season and eliminated all possibility of the second place Marion winning or tying the Red Sox.

Each team has four games yet to play. The percentage marks show that if Mansfield should lose all its contests it would have a percentage total of 675. If Marion is successful in all its remaining contests, it will have a percentage of 670.

Tiffin won yesterday over Fostoria, 3-2, to insure itself of third place. There was a possibility that Findlay might have stepped up into the show position. The remaining three teams will remain as they are in the standings.

Manager Chapple Geygan will lead his club to Fremont Sunday to engage the Reds of that city.

On Labor day the league will wind up its activities with three sets of double bills. Fostoria and Findlay will meet in a home and home engagement. Tiffin will play at Mansfield and Marion will entertain Fremont at Lincoln park.

The Marion team was idle yesterday.

In the pennant-deciding game yesterday, the Mansfield pitcher, Cheney, limited the Findlay aggre-

Marion sport fans will have every opportunity for their favorite pastimes in a generous and varied sports program lined up for the Labor Day week-end.

Marion's entry in the Ohio State baseball league will play four games Sunday and Monday. The team will travel to Fremont Sunday to play a double header with the fifth-place Reds. The following day, Labor Day, Fremont will play a double header at Lincoln park. The first game will get under way at 1:30.

On Sunday, the Marion Steam Shovel baseball team will entertain the strong Shelby Settlement squad. Earlier in the season the local club gained a 5-4 decision over the Settlers.

Other games near Marion Sunday will match the Eagles baseball team of Crestline and the Bucyrus Questions at Bucyrus and the Village Tavern team of Little Sandusky with the Upper Sandusky Merchants at Lovell.

Aside from the baseball contests, many of the softball teams in and around Marion have arranged games.

Golf courses will represent their usual appeal and if weather conditions become less severe a great number of fans will seek their entertainment on the fairways.

A good wrestling match has been arranged by local promoters. Silent Rattan, the clever mute who has been giving some very clever exhibitions here recently, will meet Jackie Nichols, chinapinning from Tampa, Fla. In the other half of the main go Indian Frank Kirkland will try to tame Gil LaCrosse, the everything but bashful Boston sailor. Both bouts will be 90 minute time limit affairs. A 20-minute preliminary will precede the double main go.

Schmeling To Fight Louis for World Title in June

By The Associated Press

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—Approximately two years after he won a title "shot" by knocking out Joe Louis in 12 rounds, Max Schmeling is to fight Louis for the world heavyweight championship next June.

The announcement that the German clouter had been signed for the bout came yesterday as no particular surprise. Fight fans had been expecting Mike Jacobs to attend to that affair as soon as he got the more pressing matter of Joe's title defense against Tommy Farr out of the way. For Schmeling, however, it was a matter of considerable importance.

When he whipped Louis back in June, 1936, Max, a former champion himself, automatically superseded Joe as No. 1 challenger for the crown worn by Jimmy Braddock. He signed up to fight in September, then came back from Germany to sign all over again when Braddock developed arthritis in his hands and said he couldn't fight.

Then came an offer for Braddock to defend the crown against Louis in Chicago last June and Max made another transAtlantic trip, which ended in his training for the "phantom" bout after losing practically every round in a bitter court struggle.

Schmeling lost again when he passed up Mike Jacobs' offer of a 30 per cent cut in the gate—the same share that Louis would get—for a title bout this fall and decided to tackle Tommy Farr, the British empire champion, instead. Jacobs beat him on that one by offering Farr a bigger purse and persuading him to come here and fight Louis instead.

All that led up to a five-hour conference yesterday at which differences were patched up and every detail of the fight, except the exact date and the place where it will be held, was settled.

The main points of the contract Schmeling signed are these:

The title bout will take place "somewhere in the United States" in June.

Schmeling will get 20 per cent of the net receipts and a substantial slice of the radio and movie revenue. Louis will get 40 per cent.

OHIO STATE FAIR RACE MEET ENDS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 4—Symbol Hal, winner of the Ohio State fair grand circuit program's last day feature yesterday, made the best time of the day, pacing the mile in 2:04.

The event, the $1,000 2:13 pace stake, was won in straight heats. The bay horse, owned by E. R. Dail of Tarboro, N. C., was driven by Dr. Hugh M. Parshall of Urbana, O.

Kate Kennion, chestnut mare owned by J. J. Mooney of Fremont and driven by Jake Mahoney, won the 2:16 trot for a $500 purse. The best time was 2:07.

The lone spill of the five-day meeting took place in the third race when Dorothy Bob, driven by Jimmy Devore, fell and demolished the sulky when Callie G broke. Gilt Hanover won the race, a two-year-old pace stake for a $1,000 stake.

Gilt Hanover, owned by the Biery farm at Butler, Pa., was driven by Charlie Lacey. Best time was 2:11.

Baldy C. Grattan, owned by J. E. Crosbie of Tulsa, Okla., and driven by Warren Dennis, took the 2:18 class pace for a $500 purse in a best time of 2:06¾.

INDIANS, REDS WIN; DODGERS CUT GIANTS' LEAD TO HALF GAME

Cleveland Wallops Browns, 15-3; Cincinnati Routs Cards, 9-1, in Night Tilt.

BY SID FEDER

Joe McCarthy is beginning to agree that he has a "wonder" team in his New York Yankees. He "wonders" when they're going to start hitting again.

While the National League spar featuring the Giants and Cubs, with the Dodgers as chief jokers, has been drawing the spotlight on the baseball stage recently, things have been happening to those Yanks.

With a nine-game lead in the American League the Yanks haven't any immediate worry, such as the bogey-man which is haunting the Giants, whose National League edge was a mere half-a-game today, and threatened still further by their chief haters, the Dodgers.

But the fact remains that the once-mighty Yankees are in such a hitting slump that even rookie pitchers are finding it something less than a day's labor to knock them off. Although the team as a whole is hitting only .256 since the doldrums caught up with them, it's largely due to the fact that the three big guns—Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey—seem to be loaded with nothing more explosive than wet powder these days.

The second-place Tigers are also finding it tough to keep themselves untracked.

Rookie Ken Chase, whose only previous claim to fame was based on a decision he earned over Bob Feller, handed Gehrig and company its third straight beating yesterday. He handcuffed the heavy hitters, allowed only seven hits altogether, and finished on top, 4-2. Since the Tigers trounced the White Sox, 4-3, this defeat cut a full game from the Yankee lead.

The big doings of the day were staged at the Polo Grounds. The Daffy Dodgers, never having so much fun as when they're pinning the donkey's tail on their long time feudists, really knocked the ears off the Giants, clubbing out 18 hits for a 15-7 victory. This defeat shaved the Giants' lead to a bare half-game over the idle Cubs.

The Indians featured a nine-run eight inning to wallop the Brownies, 15-3. It was the ninth straight win for Johnny Allen, Tribe hurler. The Bees put on a five-run spree in the tenth to take the Phillies, 7-2, for Jim Turner's 16th pitching win. The Reds had a seven-run fifth frame to take the Cardinals, 9-1, in a night game.

Like the Cubs, the Pirates in the National League and the Red Sox and Athletics in the American had the day off.

In Ohio History

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories, written for The Associated Press.)

McKINLEY

The late James Creelman, noted traveler and journalist, closed his book of travels and experiences with noted men with this estimate of President McKinley, of whom he was a close friend and adviser:

"Whatever else history may say of William McKinley, those who know him will have to bear witness to the forgiveness that shone through his character. It was the crown of his life. He died without an enemy, forgiving the hand that shed his blood.

"My one ambition is to be known as the president of the whole people,' he said to me when I last saw him in the White House. 'I have no other desire than to honor that name. My plan is to forget the evil and remember only the good. It is the only way for Americans to live."

HORSE and COW SALE
WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 8
10:30 A. M.
Bucyrus Livestock Commission Co.
BUCYRUS, OHIO
On Plymouth Road State Route 98

The total number of horses and mules sold at this week's auction was 117 head, which was about enough for the trade. The auction was very slow and draggy in spots and most all classes selling some lower especially so on the plainer kinds. If you can use any horses at all, the way horses sold here Wednesday it looks as though you couldn't help but make a profit if you can sell them at all.
From the number reported we look for a good run for next week's market and believe it will be to your advantage to try this market and see how they are selling, as I believe we are selling them as cheap as any place in this country and better horses than they are having in many places.

NOTICE
Will have our big Special Colt Sale in the next week or two. Have the promise of a lot of good colts. Any time you plan on coming we will appreciate your wiring us at our expense.
Will also have several good dairy cows again for this sale.

Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Sept. 4—The wool market was very quiet during the past week.

The chief efforts of the trade were directed toward determining the significance of the price trends in the opening Australian wool sales. An easier sentiment in Boston as a result of the decline from the opening in Australia has not as yet been reflected in any definite tendency toward making concessions from quotations on domestic wools.

Graded combing Ohio fleeces were quoted unchanged at 42@42 cents in the grease for fine delaine, at 42@43 cents for fine delaine, at 42@43 cents for staple combing half bloods at 42@44 cents for three-eighths blood, and at 42@43 cents for quarter blood.

STOCKS REVIVE AS WEEK ENDS

Steel Shares Depress List as Fall Outlook Seems Not So Good.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—The stock market fell back this week but received some support as the period closed.

During much of the week steels weighed heavily on the rest of the market, declining when steel trade circles called into question the outlook for fall business.

Although this served in part as a depressant, other factors which put traders in a selling mood were increased stresses and strains in the far east and Mediterranean.

In the bond market declines in U. S. government loans and railroad obligations also provided a background for falling share prices.

Another factor which some analysts stressed as unsettling was the continued decline of commodities. With wheat, cotton and livestock on the downturn, it was argued recent estimates of farm purchasing power might have to be modified.

Wall Street men with a finger on the pulse of retail trade noted that although sales quickened with the approach of school openings, the test of the fall season will carry in part the question of profit margins.

At that time, it was argued, it would be impossible to tell whether prices could be increased in order to offset higher operating and manufacturing costs and at the same time whether public buying power will be able to absorb higher retail quotations without slowing down distribution.

Statistical evidence on current trade and industrial trends was mixed. Higher carloading and steel operations were posted, while entries for motor and electric power products showed declines which were partly seasonal.

Further increases in demand for commercial funds was seen by some as a symptom that business men are looking for at least a steady pace during the next few weeks.

WHEAT LOSES EARLY ADVANCE OF A CENT

Trade Light With Late Selling Laid to Rains in the Argentine.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—Wheat lost an early gain of almost a cent a bushel today and closed practically unchanged from yesterday.

Trading was light and the market was easily influenced by small orders. Some late selling was attributed to further rains in Argentina and the lower close at Buenos Aires. Traders said owners of contracts apparently wanted to even up their market position over the double holiday.

Overnight export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at 400,000 bushels and a little domestic hard winter wheat business also was reported.

Wheat closed ⅛ higher to ¼ lower compared with yesterday's finish, September 1.05⅞@⅞, December 1.07⅜@¾ and corn was ⅛@1⅛ up. September 87⅛@⅞, December 63⅜@½. Oats were ⅛ up to ⅛ down.

STOCKS CREEP LITTLE HIGHER

Market Virtually Deserted for Holidays; Wars Remain Big Factor.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—Creeping advances of as much as a point or so in steels and specialties today punctuated one of the slowest stock market sessions in months.

Customers' rooms in the commission houses were virtually deserted as most traders passed up the two-hour proceedings to get an early start on the lengthy holiday. The ticker tape frequently was motionless.

The far east and the Mediterranean were still being watched for "incidents." The threatened break between labor, as represented by John L. Lewis and the President, attracted much attention in the financial sector but it was thought doubtful this was an important market factor.

Transfers were around 280,000 shares.

Bonds did better in spots. Commodities were uneven.

While stock losers were plentiful at the close higher tendencies were displayed by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic General Motors, Anaconda, Westinghouse, General Electric, New York Central and American Smelting.

Johns-Manville met a little support after dropping more than four points. Sears Roebuck, Goodyear, Goodrich, Western Union, Pure Oil and Atlantic Coast Line fell backward.

In sizing up the market, one commentator said:

"It is clear buyers are timid. Most of Friday's demand probably came from shorts who were nervous after the sharp decline which had no worthwhile correction. It is equally apparent there are many people waiting for rallies to pursue liquidating programs."

Prosecutor Gives Ruling On Question Of Hospital

Approval of Bond Issue by Public Vote Necessary, Michel Tells Board of Commissioners.

Approval of a bond issue or special tax levy by the voters apparently is necessary before county commissioners can proceed with the proposed construction of a county hospital for indigent tuberculosis patients. Such was the gist of a state law cited by Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel in a letter received by the commissioners yesterday.

The commissioners through the clerk of the board, Clifford E Willoughby, had requested recently an opinion from Mr Michel Their request was.

"What procedure shall the board of county commissioners follow for the construction of a county hospital at the county home, said construction being fairly estimated from $15,000 to $20,000, with no funds available in the general fund of the county? In other words may bonds be issued without a vote of the people, there being no emergency existing?"

Mr. Michel referred commissioners to section 3127 of the Ohio general code which reads: "County commissioners shall have the power to purchase, appropriate, construct, enlarge, improve and rebuild a county hospital or hospital building. But no money shall be expended for the original purchase appropriation or construction thereof until a tax levy or a bond issue therefore has been submitted to the electors of the county and approved by them"

Commissioners have been seriously considering changing the old cast building at the county home into a modern hospital for county residents with advanced cases of tuberculosis, requiring permanent hospitalization Tentative plans contemplated formation of a WPA project

Commissioners recently cited possible savings of several thousand dollars in the county's annual tuberculosis bill of $15,000 Advanced patients are now housed at Jane Case hospital in Delaware at $1 a day with from seven to eight patients usually there

John H. Moore, Marion architect, has been employed to draft plans for the remodelling of the building.

WORK ON HIGHWAY PROJECT TO START

Operations on Six-Mile Upper Sandusky Road Improvement Ready Tuesday.

Work will begin Tuesday on the $72,242 85 improvement of the Marion-Upper Sandusky road over a six-mile stretch from the intersection with Route 4 to the Wyandot county lines, Herbert R Krebs, resident engineer for the state highway department here, announced today. The contract has been awarded to the Battdorf-Martin Construction Co, of Upper Sandusky on its bid which was $50 less than the cost estimated by the state department.

Traffic will not be blocked off entirely at any time, Mr. Krebs said. Beginning Tuesday morning one way traffic will be in effect from Route 4 intersection to the northern working bound o. the crew. As the workers progress north, the one-way traffic will move with them, Mr. Krebs said.

The road will be traffic-bound and the improvement is expected to be completed in from three to four weeks. The first step is to lay a leveling coat of asphaltic material. The second is the binder coat and the third the wearing surface, thus making it necessary for workers to go the six-mile stretch, three times.

From six to eight trucks, two rollers, three flagmen and five men on other machinery will be used.

CONSULS WANT WAR SHIFTED AT SHANGHAI

pursuit planes struck a heavy Japanese bomber down in flames near the international settlement. The bombing crew was killed. Thousands of awestruck foreigners witnessed the spectacular air battle.

In retaliation for the Chinese aerial bombardment of Yangtzepoo today, which spread new flames, Japan's airmen blasted at Chinese positions in Chapei, the already devastated Chinese quarter.

The aviators also showered their explosive wrath on the Klangwan, Taichong and Yanchong districts.

A Japanese spokesman disclosed that the Japanese consulate was struck six times in yesterday's artillery fire which hammered back Japanese landing parties on the Whangpoo river.

New Fires Flare

Pootung, across the meandering Whangpoo east of the international settlement and the French concession, also flared with vast new fires set off by a night of Japanese aerial and naval bombardment.

But still hidden within that smoking quarter were the Chinese land batteries which forced eight Japanese troop transports to turn tail and flee down the Whangpoo.

Everyone in refugee-jammed Shanghai, normally a city of 3,000,000 population, took literally the dire warning of Japanese naval authorities: "Japan will take drastic action to terminate Chinese activities as well as advance the Japanese objectives in Shanghai."

Part of the Japanese fleet lies on the Whangpoo.

A simple service without music was arranged for the funeral of Edward F Sharpless, once vaudeville's greatest ventriloquist, today at 4 p m. at the C. E. Curtis Co. funeral home on East Center street.

Dr. Edward T. Waring of Epworth M. E. church was chosen to deliver a brief funeral sermon. Burial was to be made on the Sharpless family lot in the Marion cemetery.

SUSPECT IN POLICE SLAYING CAPTURED

roads for about three hours against the possible appearance of the bandit car of which they had a detailed description over the state patrol radio system.

Union county authorities patrolled Route 32 between Marysville and West Mansfield, Wyandot County Sheriff H. Weihenmolitz and his deputy blocked the intersection of routes 37 and 95 at LaRue, Kenton police were at Mt. Victory and Crawford county officials were stationed along route 23 north of here, according to instructions given by the state patrol over the radio from Findlay.

Morrow and Delaware county authorities also took part in the hunt but their stations were not known by local officials.

Deputy Willis termed yesterday's dragnet one of the most intensive laid in the vicinity for the past several months.

Those killed yesterday in the gun battle were Chief Sheriff's Deputy Edward Furry, 36, and the son of a former Springfield mayor, City Patrolman Martin Randolph, 38, and Robert Cornett, 32, one of the four whom a raiding party surprised at a lake resort cottage 18 miles southwest of Springfield yesterday.

Police guns also brought down the fourth, Harry Chapman of Chicago, reported in a critical condition, wounded in the heart and shoulder. Police Prosecutor Abe Gardner attempted to question him but decided to wait until later today because of Chapman's condition. Gardner sought the identity of the pair who escaped.

The third policeman shot was Martin Donnelly, wounded in the shoulder and finger.

Cornette was released from the Ohio penitentiary last Dec. 10 on a sick parole. He had been serving a life term for murder, being received June 23, 1924, from Washington county. He formerly lived in Portsmouth but had been in Hamilton recently.

The shooting occurred at the end of a search for the abductors of Robert M. Smith, a cafe proprietor, who was picked up on a downtown street and robbed of $1,290, then released several miles away.

Furry, Randolph and Donnelly trailed them to Crystal Lake, found the car parked behind a cottage, and called for the occupants to come out.

Receiving no answer, the officers forced a window and climbed in the house.

Spotting a man crouching with a gun in his hand, Donnelly said the officers began firing. Furry was shot in the back from a closet.

The cornered quarry made a break from the cottage, only to run into gun fire from other peace officers who had surrounded the place. Two dashed through the line of officers, Cornette and Chapman fell in the yard.

Two airplanes from Wright field at Dayton joined in the hunt for the fleeing pair when the highway patrol reported they drove north through New Carlisle about an hour after the shooting. But they could not locate them.

The United States lighthouse service plans to install crewless lightships along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, their lights, fog horns, bells and radio beacons being controlled from shore stations by radio.

FIVE JAPANESE FLIERS KILLED BY CHINESE

Attacked After Forced Landing Following Raid in North China.

By The Associated Press

HSINKING, Manchoukuo, Sept. 4—(U) Col. Misao Hideshima and four other Japanese aviators died in action today following a forced landing about 10 miles west of Changpoi, Chahar province, China.

Part of a squadron of Japanese planes were returning from a raid of Shanghai province, in north China, when Hideshima's plane was forced suddenly to land. It cracked up, seriously injuring the occupants.

Chinese troops nearby immediately attacked the disabled ship and the wounded officer and his men returned the fire until one by one they were all picked off but Hideshima.

Meanwhile, other planes of the squadron wheeled above, trying to help the beleaguered little band. Their efforts failed and finally Hideshima set fire to the wrecked plant and perished in the flames.

LOYALISTS MENACE CAPITAL OF ARAGON

By The Associated Press

HENDAYE, FRANCO-SPANISH FRONTIER, Sept. 4—The Spanish government army on the Aragon front menaced Zaragoza anew today. It was reported from Madrid, after government shock troops seized strategic Belchite, 22 miles southeast of the old Aragon capital.

With Belchite wrested from insurgent control, government columns were said to be pushing strongly against Zaragoza simultaneously from the northeast and the south.

A government communique announcing capture of Belchite last night said 1,500 insurgents were killed, 500 were captured and hundreds of others deserted into the ranks of the besiegers.

An insurgent force of machine gunners who had held out for days in a seminary on the edge of the town attempted to escape yesterday afternoon through a tunnel but the attacking militiamen dived in after them and captured 40.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 4—John Barrymore's yacht "Infanta," purchased eight years ago for $150,000, had a new skipper today, and thus was injected a shot of ozone into the actor's financial "breathing spell."

The "Infanta" was sold yesterday in federal bankruptcy court to E. P. Lawson, wealthy New Yorker, for $77,500.

Barrymore did not get a great deal of cash from the sale.

Walter C. Durst, Barrymore's attorney, said a $40,000 mortgage against the ship will be satisfied, also a government lien of $35,000 for past due income taxes.

Fish as Excuse for Party Create State Problem

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 4—A man who informed his wife he was going fishing, but went on a party instead, gave the conservation division a problem today.

Returning home about 8 a. m., he found it necessary to have evidence of a fishing trip.

He cast his fly in a pool on the state office building grounds and immediately hooked bass.

The bass, however, was one of two dozen pets of custodians of the building grounds, and the fisherman was seized by an attendant.

The conservation division found he had a license, however, and his contention that he had a right to fish anywhere except on private property stumped officials.

They are considering asking the attorney general for his opinion.

Will Seek Election to 196 Public Offices in November Election; Deadline Brings Rush.

A total of 372 candidates entered the field for 196 rural and school offices before the deadline for filing nominating petitions for the November election fell at 6:30 last night. Election board officials said the number of candidates is greater than normal and that contests loom in for many of the offices.

Despite the large field of candidates, there were none for the two posts to be vacant on the Marion township board of education. Those whose terms expire this year are B. F. Cluff and F. B. Hinamon.

C. C. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the board said blank ballots will be given voters in the township in November and that the persons receiving the greatest number of votes, although it be only one vote each, will be declared elected.

He said a blank ticket in recent years has been unusual since the inauguration of township caucuses and advocation of them by boards of elections.

Petitions Pour In

Between noon yesterday and the filing deadline, Mr. Ritzler was rushed every minute as petitions of 99 candidates were filed.

At the last minute three men filed for the three positions on the county board of education which will be vacant this fall. Those filing were Robert H. Allen of Caledonia, B. H. Gast of Prospect and John W. Ruth of near Green Camp. The three incumbents, Samuel W. Almendinger, O. D. Kennedy and L. E. Mantz did not file for new terms.

The two members of the Marion city board of education whose terms expire this year also filed at the last minute. They are Dr. L. L. Thomas and Harry J. Barnhart, vice president and president of the board respectively.

LEWIS CAUSTICALLY ATTACKS ROOSEVELT

looking for political patronage. The patronage was forthcoming and Kelly must believe that the killing of the strikers is no liability in partisan politics."

Of Gov. Davey, who called out the national guard in Ohio's steel strike, Lewis said:

"Meanwhile, the steel puppet Davey is still governor of Ohio, but not for long I think, not for long. The people of Ohio may be relied upon to mete out political justice."

Raps Labor Bill Foes

Of the anti-wage and hour congress bloc, he said:

"The spectacle of august and dignified members of congress, servants of the people and agents of the republic, skulking in hallways and closets, hiding their faces in a party caucus to prevent a quorum from acting upon a labor measure, is one that emphasizes the perfidy of politicians and blasts the confidence of labor's millions in politicians' promises and statesmen's vows."

Lewis' speech, pungent as it was, was notable also for some things he did not say.

Before going on the air he conferred with an attorney for the Columbia Broadcasting System on certain passages the radio officials deemed too strong.

His speech as delivered differed on two points from the prepared text. Stricken out was an adjective applied to Gov. Davey and a paragraph directed at Tom Girdler, president of the Republic Steel Corp.

Omits Davey Title

The passage referring to Davey read in text "the —— Gov. Davey." Instead of cutting out the objectional word, Lewis scornfully delected the word "governor" also, leaving it a bare "Davey of Ohio."

"Davey of Ohio," he said, successful in the last election because of his reiterated promises of fair treatment to labor, used the military power of his commonwealth on the side of the Republic Steel Corp. and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

"Nearly half of the staggering military expenditure incident to the crushing of this strike in Ohio was borne by the federal government through the allocation of financial aid to the military establishment of the state."

A. C. I. O. Threat

The entire speech was a C. I. O. threat to declare open war on the Democratic party unless it repaid in labor legislation and strike sympathy the half million C. I. O. dollars dumped into the Democratic war chest.

Lewis did not reveal what steps he would take if the Democratic party did not fall in line. He left the thought that it might be he, instead of President Roosevelt, who would "purge" the Democratic party. Or he might cut loose entirely from his former political allies and plunge at the ballot box under another label.

Though smarting under failure of the steel strike, angered at Roosevelt's strike straddling tactics and disgusted with conservative legislators, he let it be known that the Democrats had broken the first commandment of the labor and political codes—"help those who help you."

"The objectives of this movement," said Lewis, "are not political in a partisan sense. Yet it is true that a political party which seeks the support of labor and makes pledges of good faith to labor must, in equity and good conscience, keep that faith and redeem those pledges."

Lewis charged that neither the federal government nor local authorities had ever rebuked "the murder" of steel workers, but instead sought refuge in the "niceties of legalistic jurisdiction."

Lewis said that 85 per cent of the steel industry has signed contracts with the C. I. O., covering 329 steel companies and 510,000 employes.

Kelly Refuses To Join Dispute

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago replied today to remarks leveled at him last night by Chairman John L. Lewis of the C.I.O. in a radio speech at Washington with this statement:

"Chicago's industrial labor situation is now normal and I see no reason whatever to enter into any controversy that would needlessly stir up ill feeling and possibly make conditions chaotic again.

"The corner's jury made a full and impartial investigation and their verdict is the answer to all criticism in this matter."

(A coroner's jury here found that the deaths of 10 persons resulting from a Memorial day encounter between police and Republic Steel Corp. strike sympathizers was "justifiable homicide.")

ISSUES REPORT ON SALES TAX

County Totals for Periods in 1936 and 1937 Are Shown in Comparison.

Marion county consumers saved $[illegible]65 in sales tax stamps during the first half of this year as a result of the removal of the three per cent levy from food for home consumption in the November election. The semi-annual report of the sales of prepaid tax receipts issued by State Treasurer Clarence H. Kinsley shows $167,544.57 was spent in the county for stamps the first six months of this year.

In the first six months of 1936, merchants bought $178,599.15 in stamps from County Treasurer Elmer D. Cole and various substations in the county. Recently Mr. Cole attributed the decrease to the loss of the tax on food and said the decrease would have been greater but for a pick up in business in the county this year over last year.

Estimates made at the time the food tax was repealed placed the tax reduction in Marion county at $50,000 for the half year.

The greatest weekly collection in the half year was in the week ended June 5 when merchants bought $6,421.28 in stamps. The smallest was the week of Jan. 16 with sales of $4,091.11.

The largest week last year in the first six months was represented by $9,225.60 in stamps sold in the week ended May 24. The smallest was $4,969.86 in the week ended Jan. 20.

The average weekly sale this year was $6,059 and last year $6,869.

The first week of this year was above average until the week ended March 20, collections were below average. The pick-up in March continued above average until the middle of May, dropped off for a week, then went above average again until the latter part of June, when it dropped off for another week. The final week of the half year was also above average, $6,876.59. The first week was $7,400.55.

A similar trend was noticed in weekly sales in the first half of 1936 with the above average receipts coming in April for the most part and scattering through May and June.

What To Do-

If You Are Caught in a Tide Rip

1. Call, don't wave, for help. Waving often is mistaken for monkey shining.

2. Keep swimming parallel to shore unless...

3. You are an excellent swimmer and think you can swim out of it.

If you try No. 3, says the Jones Beach, N. Y., lifeguard who gives this advice, remember that "rip tides" are rough stretches of water caused by the meeting of conflicting currents or by water passing over a sand bar. The bars are oval in shape, with the wide side of the oval usually falling parallel to shore. The object is to swim out of the area of the sand formation.

You can learn to avoid "rip tides," or sea pusses as they also are known, if you remember that they occur around the last buoy and the water in them looks much lighter and greener than the surrounding sea.

The main point, in any event, is to stay above water until your rescuer arrives. The lifeguard will come out with a rope which reaches to the last buoy. If you've gone beyond that, he'll swim out on a surf board to get you.

Tomorrow: If The Bridegroom Fails To Show Up.

the dark ships

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

(Copyright by Hulbert Footner)

SYNOPSIS: Wealthy, flashy Prescott Fanning abducts Janet from Baltimore on his yacht. She gets word to Neill, a young federal agent, who loves her. Rushing to Absalom's Harbor, he boards the yacht and hides in a locked cabin. Fanning shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neill hides here in the disused liners up the river. Back at the village he resumes his fisherman role to watch developments, offering to help Mark Bonniger, a keen local man who takes charge of the investigation. Kettering, a Baltimore lawyer, is on hand to fish, and queer little David Eyster, who hated Fanning, shows up.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Dangerous Conference

HAVING accepted Neill, Bonniger in his grave way was disposed to be friendly. After dinner in the hotel he suggested that he and Neill and Kettering should sit down somewhere and discuss the case.

"I'd be glad to hear any suggestions you or Kettering may have to offer."

Neill hardened with a sense of the danger of such a conference. He must appear to be working with them, while he played his own hand. He must study every word that he uttered. Bonniger was not the sort of a man to be easily confused by false issues. Above all he must take care not to overplay his hand. At the same time Neill was conscious of the grim humor of the situation. To be asked to sit down and discuss the best way of catching himself!

"Kettering, I think, should be told who you are," said Bonniger, "if you have no objections."

"That's all right with me," said Neill, "as long as the newspaper boys don't get hold of it."

"I will protect you with the press."

They took possession of the little parlor back of the hotel office and locked the door to keep out the ever-present mob. The motor bus had arrived, and Bonniger had been closeted with McGee, the engineer. Neill's chief anxiety at the moment was to learn if McGee had said anything to Bonniger about calling him up at the Stafford. If he had, it wouldn't lead the investigator directly to Neill, because he was registered at the Stafford under an assumed name. But Bonniger would be able to get a good description of him at the hotel.

"What did you get from McGee?" asked Neill carelessly.

"McGee's story corroborates the other three as to the events leading up to the murder," said Bonniger. "McGee himself is outside suspicion because he went to town on Tuesday morning. I got one new thing out of him. He confessed to leaving a gun where the girl could get it. He was sorry for her. I showed him the gun with which Fanning was shot, and he identified it as his."

Neill was relieved in mind.

Kettering was much impressed when he was told who Neill was. "It's providential that you should be here," he said.

"I don't know," said Neill. "Murder is a little out of my line."

"I've never solved a murder," said Kettering, "but I've defended more than one murderer."

Neill did not care much for Kettering. He was too wordy. He had an idea that Bonniger did not fancy him either. But the man had a bright mind. He could pounce on the weakness of an argument. Bonniger and Kettering made a formidable combination to be up against. Neill let them do most of the talking.

Theorizing

Bonniger laid out the known facts. He took it for granted that the missing girl had shot Fanning. "Strange that nothing has turned up today to establish her identity," he said. "The story has been out on the streets of Baltimore for hours, but nobody has come forward to tell us who she is. Nobody has reported a girl missing. If I am to believe the stories of the crew, she was a girl of remarkable beauty. Such a one ought to be well known."

For Neill this was all to the good.

"The evidence suggests that some man helped her to escape from the yacht," Bonniger continued. "It may have been a friend, or it may have been a stranger bent on rescuing a woman in distress. It's easy for a beautiful girl to find men to help her, of course. But neither girl, man nor skiff has been seen since they left the yacht. Where did they go? How could a beautiful girl in a pink evening dress and black velvet wrap disappear without having been seen by someone?"

"Perhaps the skiff swamped out in the bay and they were drowned," said Kettering.

"It's a possibility."

Neill put in a word for Janet. "If Fanning attacked the girl, she was justified in shooting him."

"Certainly. But she would have to prove that she had not previously encouraged his advances. The crew testified that she seemed to come aboard the yacht willingly."

Kettering offered an alternative theory, that one of the crew might have shot Fanning before coming ashore to the movies.

Bonniger would have none of it. "Suppose one of these men shot Fanning to save the girl from him. Is it likely they would go ashore and leave her alone with the body?"

"Perhaps they procured a skiff for her," suggested Neill.

"Impossible. It was broad daylight when the crew came ashore and 50 people saw them. They went directly to the movie theater and paid they way in."

"No," Bonniger continued. "I questioned each man separately this afternoon, and their stories hung together. Fanning, the girl and another couple came aboard Monday night and had dinner. Jolly party; plenty of champagne. Later the other couple went ashore. When the yacht started down the bay, the crew suspected that the girl might have been abducted because she had brought no baggage aboard. And as Walter, the steward, said: 'She was the kind of a girl who might lead a man to do something crazy!'"

"Yet they stood for it," said Neill angrily. "What kind of men were they?"

Bonniger looked a little surprised at his indignation. (Steady! Neill warned himself.) "Well, they weren't sure of it because, they said, she didn't cry or carry on in any way."

"Some women don't cry when they're in trouble. They turn stony."

"Quite right. Anyhow, you can't expect men of that sort to play the part of heroes. Fanning was their boss...The gun clinches the case against the girl," Bonniger said firmly. "She fired the shot, I take it, and her helper came on the scene afterwards."

The Crew Saw Him

Neill had the sense of a net slowly being drawn around him and Janet. "You only assume that she had a helper," suggested Neill. "There is no proof of it."

Bonniger sprung a surprise on him. "Certainly there is proof. The three men who were sleeping on board saw him."

"Saw him?" echoed Neill. "How could that be?...When?"

"They couldn't tell me the hour. Sometime in the middle of the night."

"In the middle of the night!"

"What is there about that which is so surprising to you?"

Once more Neill was warned not to betray an undue feeling in the case. He laughed. "Oh, nothing," he said, "only it was fixed in my mind that Fanning was shot and the girl got away before the crew returned from the movies."

"Certainly Fanning was killed and the girl's friend came on the scene before the crew got back," said Bonniger. "Perhaps they heard another shot near the breakwater or of the whole crew, but if you were from their station when the boat left and you knew they had gone away with some good cause..."

Neill considered his position. He had a weapon, but...

"What do the crew of your vessel think?"

"They think..."

"You think..."

awakened by a noise on deck. A few moments were lost while he was awakening his mates, and they were pulling on their pants.

"When they stuck their heads out of the fore hatch, the man was on deck. He saw them and went over the side like a streak. They could only see him dimly. They couldn't describe him beyond the fact that he was a big man. He pulled away swiftly in the dark. They thought at the time that it was a robber."

"What about the girl?"

"They didn't see her. I assume that she threw herself in the bottom of the skiff to escape observation."

This explanation explained nothing so far as Neill was concerned. So there had been another visitor to the yacht after he and Janet had left it. Who was it? he asked himself. What was he after?

"Where do you suppose this guy was when the crew came back?" asked Kettering. "If he had a skiff with him they must have seen it."

"I am supposing that he heard the crew coming," said Bonniger, "and rowed off a little way in the dark to give them time to get below and go to sleep."

"Sure!" said Kettering.

This was a false deduction, though a natural one, and Neill could afford to smile at it.

Neill sneaks back to Janet with clothes and supplies, Tuesday.

COLLECTION SUNDAY OF "PENNY SHARES"

Labor Day

Observed in Most States To Honor American Labor

IT IS fitting that Ohio, with many other states, should set aside a day to honor Labor.

The term Labor, in this sense, means all who work. There is no group more worthy of honor than those who have toiled to make our American standards what they are today.

JEWISH NEW YEAR SERVICES PLANNED

George Kleinmaier Will Read Sermon Before Congregation of Israel.

Sunday will mark the opening of the New Year observance of the Marion Congregation of Israel, joining with Jews throughout the world. The celebration will be that of Rosh Hashanah, and will mark the beginning of the Jewish year 5698.

At night, promptly at 8, there will be a service at which a sermon on "The Book of Life," written by Rabbi Samuel Schwartz of Chicago, will be read by George C. Kleinmaier. There will be choral singing led by Mrs. Victor L. Dombaugh and vocal solos by Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford and Harwood Taylor.

Monday at 10 a. m. Mr. Kleinmaier will read a sermon on "Return to Old Truths," written by Rabbi Henry F. Kegan of Mt. Vernon, N. Y. The service will include choral and solo selections.

The services will be held in the temple rooms in the Marion National bank building.

During the New Year season Jews are reminded that all mankind passes in judgment before its Creator, and are called upon to judge themselves, repent, and go forth with the new resolve for righteous action in the year which faces them.

The 10 days of penitence find their climax in Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement and the season as a whole is the most important in the Jewish religious calendar.

The traditional greeting for this holy day is "May you be inscribed for a good year." This form of address goes back to a poetic thought of the deity as writing in a huge ledger the various fortunes assigned to each of His children

PASTOR LEAVES HERE

REV. S. P. RICCOBENE

REV. S. P. RICCOBENE RETURNS TO COLLEGE

Pastor of Covenant Congregation Will Enter University of Texas.

Rev. S. P. Riccobene, pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian church since shortly after its organization more than eight months ago, left yesterday for Austin, Tex. to resume his studies.

Rev. Riccobene came here in January from Cincinnati where he had served an assistant pastorship.

In Austin he will continue his studies in the theological seminary at the University of Texas and will further his work toward a college degree. In two years he expects to have completed his studies for bachelor of arts and bachelor of divinity degrees.

While attending school he will serve a small pastorate in the southern Presbyterian church in the United States.

Until a regular pastor takes over the work at the Covenant church, there will be visiting preachers from time to time, Sunday school will be conducted regularly, as will the mid-week prayer service. Next Wednesday night the service will be at the home of Mrs. Amy Friel on Nunin court.

PASTOR AND FAMILY RETURN TO MARION

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Carriker and children, Betty Lois, John Jr. and Donald, have returned from a month's vacation in the south, during which Rev. Carriker preached at several former charges, including Ellzaville, Ky., and Rocky River, near Concord, N. C. He was guest preacher also, at Harrisburg, N. C., and the family visited for a time in Weirton W. Va., where Rev Carriker at one time held a pastorate.

At Elizaville they visited Mrs Carriker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Dorsey, and at Concord, N. C. they were guests of Rev. Carriker's brother, A. L. Carriker. They joined Mrs. Carriker's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gillespie and family of Cincinnati, for an eight-day trip through the North Carolina mountains.

Your Health
BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Arthritis.

AT THIS time of the year many who suffer from arthritis are uncertain as to where to spend a vacation. Some choose the seashore, while others pick the mountains. In most cases a high, dry climate is preferable.

Undoubtedly many of the cases of so-called arthritis are in reality forms of rheumatism or neuralgia. For this reason, before choosing what climate is best suited for you, it is well to have an exact diagnosis made of your ailment.

Arthritis, as its name implies, is an inflammation of the joint. It may be acute or chronic. In acute arthritis, the sufferer is usually confined to bed for several weeks. If the condition is neglected, the acute pain subsides but some permanent disability results. This may take the form of chronic arthritis, which is so common everywhere.

Do not confuse arthritis with neuritis. Neuritis is an inflammation of a nerve. The trouble may be located in any portion of the body, and one or more nerves may be affected. The pain is usually severe and extremely obstinate.

Neuralgia is often confused with arthritis and neuritis. It is, in reality, a mild form of neuritis. It may be associated with an inflammation of a nerve.

Rheumatism is a chronic constitutional disease. Although the actual cause is not known, it is believed to be due to some microorganism. Just what germ is responsible has not yet been determined.

Rheumatism afflicts young and old. In the young it manifests itself by high fever and severe pain in all the joints and muscles. This type is known as acute inflammatory rheumatism.

It will be seen that although these various conditions closely resemble one another, they are actually different diseases. In all of them, infection undoubtedly plays an important part. For this reason, it is important that infected teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses, or infection of other structures of the body which may lead to inflammation of a joint, nerve, or muscle, must be gotten rid of by appropriate treatment.

If you have one of these afflictions, do not depend on home remedies. It is best first to determine what the disorder really is. This requires the aid of your doctor, who will give you a complete examination.

The Stars Say--
For Sunday, Sept. 5

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is conspicuous for the prospect of major events drastically affecting the affairs of church and state, labor, property, as well as all manner of secret, fraternal or political organizations. These are all under excellent auguries for notable performances, but, at the same time, there are elements of fraud, duplicity as well as turbulence, violence and devastation to be met and handled strategically.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of conspicuous, sudden and memorable adventures affecting vitally the future and its fortunes. While prospects are excellent for advancement, increased finances, enhanced prestige and popularity, with much solidarity in high and potent friendships, yet there are omens of duplicity, fraud, intrigue as well as sudden disruptive, turbulent and passionate occurences to jeopardize the propitious auguries.

A child born on this day may have a rather remarkable character and disposition, with originality, ingenuity, shrewdness and many talents for attaining wealth, high popularity and prestige, possibly fame. But, at the same time, it may be impulsive, turbulent, aggressive and passionate. It may have a most adventurous and romantic life.

For Monday, Sept. 6

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a particularly lively, progressive and adventurous day despite certain very definite and stubborn obstacles, delays, impediments and difficulties to be carefully but resolutely met and disposed of. Perseverance, determination as well as tact may be instrumental in eliminating such obstructing and problems, making way for high adventure if not sensational romance in the private affiliations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively, exciting, progressive and even sensationally adventurous or romantic year. Radical influences are at work to undermine current stagnations, obstructions or stubborn oppositions or treacheries.

Persistency and sagacity should dispose of these to make way for definite business progress as well as romantic denouements of sensational adventures in the private life.

A child born on this day may be unusually versatile and gifted with intellectual and inventive powers of genius. It may follow a career of adventure or public service.

For Tuesday, Sep. 7

A LIVELY and probably exciting day, with much stirring in business and private lives, is presaged from the transits of the moon over the activating planets. Employment will prove interesting and progressive, with small recognitions or favors. Other matters assume intriguing phases, particularly as they are involved with corporations, secret societies, political or diplomatic organizations.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly active and progressive year, with employment under good prospect of favors or some token of preferment. Transactions with large concerns, rings, political or diplomatic circles or with secret lodges or fraternities will be intriguing and fairly prosperous. However, there are temptations in the way of speculation, social extravagances to guard against.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, energetic, of speculative or expansive ideas and large ambitions, winning favoritism from its employers or others in power. Its social tendencies may lead it to extravagances and personal indulgences.

Time To Awake

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. D. C. SHEARER

Pastor, the First Pilgrim Holiness Church

"Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light." Eph. 5.14

WHO is not thankful for that gift of God—the balm of life—sleep!

Yet it may be attended with great peril. Especially so if a fiend has entered the home armed with a dagger.

Generally, in the Bible, when "sleep" is used in a figurative sense, it refers to an evil condition into which people have fallen—a visionless, or graceless, or prayerless or worldly state.

Isaiah (chapter 29) informs us that "deep sleep" had fallen upon Judah. The prophets were asleep. The rulers and seers were likewise. Hence the Vision—the Divine Message—was a sealed book. Isaiah rang the warning bell but the people slept on.

So the unexpected occurred, that which people no doubt said, could never happen in this country, came as a dreadful blow. Judah went into Babylonian captivity!

Our churches need to awaken and repent of worldliness and return to God and His Book. Practically the same condition obtains today that prevailed in Judah before her dreadful judgment. Read carefully Isaiah 29: 9-16. Drawing near with the mouth but the heart far removed. No heart for God. Plenty of heart for self but little if any for the Savior.

We need to awaken to the value of our Book—the Bible. No other book in the world bases its authenticity and authority on "prophecy." No other dares to make such a risk. But it is no risk to the Bible, because it is from God, and of God and His salvation, and has been safeguarded by God. The most wonderful glory of the book of Daniel is that it predicted to the day the crucifixion of Messiah. Chapter 9.25-26. This left the Hebrews excuseless for rejecting as an impostor their own Messiah. The book throws divine light on the past, the present and the future. It is a disappointment to many because it strikes a death blow to carnal man's fancies. Human culture alone apart from divine grace only produces dignified sinners. Sleeping men dream. And all our fanciful theories that do not tally with the Book are only wood, hay, stubble and fit for the fire.

We need to awaken because "the night is coming when no man can work." Carnal man is bringing on just such a night—a night of unbelief and wickedness as obtained in Noah's day and Jesus said such times would come. The night is coming! Awake! Awake!

MARY LOUISE WINTERS who will become the bride of Roy Converse Sunday at Forest Lawn Presbyterian church, was honored with a miscellaneous shower last evening when Mrs. Dengler and her sister-in-law Mrs. Harold Henry entertained at the home of the former at 155 Johnson street. The affair was arranged as a surprise. Appointments for the party were in the bride-elect's colors of pink and blue.

Miss Winters "fished" for her gifts in a sea of matrimony fashioned from a screen in pink and blue, and her last gift proved to be a fiance who attended that part of the party festivities.

Marian Ann Dengler, costumed as a bride, presented favors to the bridesmaids and bridegroome before the guests entered the dining room where Misses Annadale Nixon and Betty Powell presided over the serving of refreshments. A miniature bridal party formed the centerpiece and at either end of the mirrored plaque were candles in the bride's colors. Pink cosmos and blue tapers on the table completed the decorative scheme and the lunch was carried out in wedding motifs.

Bridge awards were won by Mrs. H. E. Winters, Miss Blanche Converse and Miss Annabel Winters.

Guests included Miss Winters, Mrs. H. E. Winters, Mrs. W. P. Converse, Mrs. John Liebenderfer, Mrs. Lewis Hubley, Mrs. C. E. Dengler, Mrs. Belle Winters, Mrs. Ralph A. Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Sept. 4—Bucyrus Boy Scouts today had pooled their resources and entered upon a united program for the benefit of the city's three troops. Outstanding in the combination was the offer of the Legion troop of its camp site on the B O McMichael farm east of Bucyrus to all Scouts of the city. Heretofore the camp has been used only by the Legion troop.

The Y's Men's troop, owner of considerable camp equipment including a number of tents, offered its equipment to be used at the camp. The new Rotary club troop, which was only recently organized, will contribute its share in cash, it was agreed by committeemen of the troop.

Combining of troop resources was the result of a general meeting of committeemen of all troops who voted to appoint Dr. E. R. Schoolfield, John P. Wyer and Carl Brown, chairmen of troop committees, to serve as trustees of the $1,000 fund left to the Scouts by the late G. W. Miller for use in promoting Scout work in Bucyrus

BISHOP BROWN LOOKS TO RESTORATION PLEA

Book, "The Crisis of the World and the Church," Offered as Appeal Argument.

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 4—Quietly observing his 82nd birthday anniversary today at his estate, Brownella Cottage, Bishop William Montgomery Brown of Galion is looking forward to his 1937 appeal to the general convention for restoration to the house of bishops of the Episcopal church. The convention will be held Oct. 6, in Cincinnati.

The appeal this year to the convention is in the form of a book, "The Crisis of the World and the Church," which will come off the press about Oct. 1. Bishop Brown completed another book this year, "The Fascist and Communist Dictatorships," in which he contrasts the rise of Stalin, Mussolini and Hitler.

After his "world famous" trial for heresy which caused him to be deposed from the house of bishops, he has made continuous appeals to be restored. It was his book, "Communism and Christianism," which shocked the Episcopalian church so that he was tried for heresy, which resulted in is expulsion when the trial closed in New Orleans in 1925. Since then he has appealed to the general convention of the Episcopal church at every session for restoration. In 1934 he sent out "The Bankruptcy of Christian Supernaturalism from the Viewpoint of Other Heretics in the Episcopal Church" as an appeal.

Just Things

BY EDNA A. DUTTON

Traveling.

AT LONG last we go to the Great Lakes exposition, the other femme of the staff and myself. When the trusty calendar showed in so many figures that the fair was soon to end we ran quite a temperature until all plans were made to journey forth last week end, and believe you us, there are sights and more sights. Entraining shortly after high noon with a promise from the dispenser of the railroad tickets that we would be transferred to an air conditioned coach at the next stop, we boarded the train and trailed the big iron horse in high glee. And if you think Mr. and Mrs. L. Q. Public and all the little Publics, (particularly Mrs. L. Q.) are not air condition minded just ride a train that isn't. Mind you, we don't hold any grudge against the chap that sold us the tickets, but ours was not an air-conditioned coach notime, nowhere. So what. Nothing, except we were two of 300, (those are his exact figures), that asked the conductor "why?" He still was good natured about it and explained that they were trying to supply air conditioned coaches as quickly as possible, but the supply did not equal the demand. One woman complained bitterly, but he explained politely that when he started out on that train all they gave him was a lead pencil and a ticket punch, and that was all he could do about it. Another woman had a "deluxe" ticket which was a new one to him, and he promptly wanted to see it. All he could find on it was "for coaches only." But thanks to the ticket taker, who probably was only talking to himself and we overheard him, we made the trip in comfort, in fact it was a pleasure. All we can say is that by hook or crook, get back into the club car, they're air-conditioned.

Sights.

ALLOWING our urge to seek entertainment rather than pursue the cultural and educational things on the grounds, we joined the mad throng that thast-that's over the dastardly deeds of the Dalton boys, shook our heads a Jesse James and his bad little brothers, saw proof that crime doesn't pay, found out what happens to the boys and girls that smoke opium and its sister drugs, (that was a dime extra) shuddered at the motorcycle daredevil, booed the villian and wept with the heroine of "The Drunkard," saw all the freaks, found out what we are as interpreted by the handwriting reader, ate with the hungry and drank with the thirsty.

Rackets.

LIKE everyone else, we had a racket. Ours was garnering canes. Of course we'd "druther" have had fall hats or gloves, but since they weren't giving those away at the place they guessed your weight within three pounds or else, we took what they had, which was canes. Being a heavy weight has its moments, and ours was when the "guesser" said 160. Right then I began selecting the cane. And did my gallery give him their best brand of mirth when the indicator went round and round and right broke down. All he could say was "heavens, what did you have for supper," and shoved a cane at me. From there out the field was ours. All in all may be it wasn't so edifying, but it was loads of fun, so what.

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

Queen Olga Continues story of Youthful Romance.

AS WE waited for Queen Olga to go on with her story—she had paused after her assertion that her life with her husband had been idyllic—I felt that Lillian must share my feeling that we were watching the presentation of a romantic drama. The trite proverb about truth being stranger than fiction raised its hoary head, but I had no time to consider it, for Olga was speaking again, and all my attention was concentrated upon her.

"For years I did not know what had become of Phil," she went on. "But I had a yearly reminder of him. Each birthday my faithful maid—the one I lost that awful night"—her lips twisted in painful memory—"brought me a cluster of my favorite roses, tawny yellow with pink overtones. Phil had arranged to have them sent to her home upon that day, and while there was no card, nothing that could ever arouse any suspicion in my household, I knew from whom they came."

Her voice trailed away again, and I guessed that the fragrance of those roses was still present with her.

Will She Regret It?

I guessed something else also, that her mental condition was a little like that of a person released from ether. She was talking more than she realized, and finding a certain escape in the words. I wondered if in some way we ought to stem that torrent of reminiscence for fear that later she might keenly regret giving us so complete an insight into her emotions. But in the next instant I realized that we could do nothing.

We were upon the horns of a dilemma. She might regret her confidence, but if we showed recognition of her self-betrayal, she could delude herself with the idea that we had not read between the lines of her story, and did not realize how long that romantic love of her girlhood had remained with her.

On the other hand, if by an interruption we dammed that unguarded flow of reminiscence, her startled and keen perception might recognize our motive and bring her the humiliation of knowing that we understood even more than she was saying.

She was looking past us, unseeing, and I risked a flashing glance of inquiry at Lillian with one of our private signals. She sent her answer back instantly.

"Keep still," she signaled, and I turned my eyes to Queen Olga's, still fixed upon a past horizon, while we both waited tensely for her next words.

Roses Stopped Coming

"Then there was a year when the roses did not come. I think I knew then, but I was not sure until the second year came with no sign. Then all doubt was swept away. He must have found forgetfulness. Of course, I know now—by rough computation of the years—that the cessation of the roses came in the first year of his marriage to Noel's mother. I am glad that he found happiness and forgetfulness, for he deserved them if every any man did."

Sense of Duty

Lillian's attentive eyes and composed face betrayed nothing, but I knew she was mentally echoing my conviction that a sense of duty to the gentle, lovely girl he had married, rather than forgetfulness of the beautiful princess he had loved, was the reason for his first omission of the yearly tribute of roses.

But I guessed something else also. In some subtle fashion, his marriage had set him free from that ancient thrall. His love for Noel's gentle mother had grown with the years, and at her early death he had mourned her sincerely. I guessed that his early suffering had softened into a romantic memory which tinged but did not affect the subsequent infatuations of the "incurable romanticist," with first one woman on his horizon and then another.

And then, surprisingly, Queen Olga swept both our faces with her keen eyes, and smiled almost impishly.

"I know, of course that the years since the death of Noel's mother have not been empty of romance for Phil. In fact, not knowing that I recognized him, he has seen fit to give me his confidence most surprisingly in the long chats we have had during my convalescence."

SATURDAY, - - - - SEPTEMBER 4, 1937

Labor Day, 1937.

AS LABOR days have come and gone with the passage of years in the industrial growth of the United States, each one has been a special occasion for reviews of labor's accomplishments and its aims.

There has been compiled, step by step, an impressive record of progress toward fulfillment of the workingman's proper destiny in a democratic civilization. In political and economic rights and in contributions to the materialistic evidence of civilization, labor has earned a dignity and an importance which, Americans rightfully believe, are unequaled anywhere else on earth.

This unique raising of the dignity of labor has not been brought about without clashes of opinion and policy, inevitable in a country that guarantees freedom of expression and action. Labor, within itself, has experienced stresses and strains which sometimes handicapped it at the time, but which later could be discounted as valuable experience.

If one thing were to be chosen as being important above all others as the result of decades of striving to reach a more perfect adjustment, it might be this: In the United States, labor is a condition of life, not a separate class of citizenship.

What is called the laboring class is not a proletarian bloc, as it would be classified abroad. Most Americans have had the experience of common labor at some time or other in their lives. Most of the managers and capitalists of industry started as workers. Their success as executives and as financiers depends wholly on their ability to serve workers, who are their producers and consumers.

During the last year there has been unusual activity in organization of workers into unions. A substantial minority of the working population has been brought under the control of union leadership, and many still unorganized workers have been confronted with the issue of unionization. Because it is their problem, because it has been made a political question and because the problems of labor are the problems of the nation, it must be faced realistically.

The ultimate outcome of what is happening is uncertain. Some are apprehensive, because they fear that in some way American labor may plunge into the pitfall of proletarianism—or be plunged into it by leaders who stand to gain something by creation of an illusion of class distinction which never actually has existed outside the fevered imaginations of persons applying old world thought to new world conditions.

Hope for harmonious adjustment is sustained by faith in the composite character of workers in the United States. In 150 years they never have betrayed themselves as free citizens by letting themselves be bound to their condition. They will not do so voluntarily now.

Merit Rewarded.

AN UNUSUAL record was made in Marion this week by noteworthy advancements which came to two young men who won recognition for their ability as organizers and leaders.

On Monday came the announcement that Raymond W. Pifer, assistant farm agent in Marion county, had been appointed to the faculty of Purdue university at West Lafayette, Ind. Four days later this was followed by the news that Clarence Lenz, boys' work secretary at the Marion Y. M. C. A., had been named recreational director of the Salvation Army settlement house in Chicago.

Both of these young men are only a few years past 20, so that their appointment to such important posts is considerably out of the ordinary. It is evidence that opportunities for promotion await young people of today who prove their ability to shoulder responsibilities and perform duties efficiently.

This Mr. Pifer and Mr. Lenz did in their work here and thus the way was opened to larger fields. Their move upward will be encouraging and helpful to other Marion young men who are looking ahead hopefully. Too often the idea prevails that no matter how well a job is filled the effort goes unnoticed. The example of these two advancements, coming within less than a week, provides unmistakable proof to the contrary.

There's A Law About It

A BOSTON TERRIER PUP is the latest victim of the human race's well known thoughtlessness. The pup passed out in a Cleveland parking lot after being shut up inside a sedan parked in the sun—and they're hoping it wasn't rescued too late.

There may be some slight excuse for leaving a dog in a parked car with the windows closed, but how about a baby? What's to be done with persons who lock up their own children to suffocate by degrees while they enjoy an interval of freedom from responsibility? Sure they do it.

There's one sure-fire cure. Fortunately, there's a law about closed cars parked in the sun—a natural law. They get hotter than blazes inside. Half an hour of it should convince the most thoughtless person that it's a poor place for pups, babies, kittens, himself or what have you?

New Deal Will Never Know How Much It Owes to Jim Farley as National Party Chairman.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—There are lots of rumors going around that Postmaster General Farley will leave the cabinet in a couple of months to become the sales executive of the Pierce Arrow Motor Car company.

Presumably Mr. Farley will retain his post as chairman of the Democratic national committee. There is ample precedent for this, because chairmen of national committees have usually retained their business or professional connections even though active in national campaigns.

Jim Farley is unique in American politics. It is doubtful if President Roosevelt, or his new deal lieutenants, have adequate knowledge, much less appreciation, of what they really owe him. As an organizer and as a personal salesman of party fidelity and party mechanics, there has never been anyone like him. He is indefatigable. He travels constantly—and I was wrong in my dispatch the other day in saying that he does it at government expense. For I should have remembered that the postmaster general, under this and under Republican administrations, carries a pass for free transportation on railway and airways. This is because one of the official duties of the head of the postoffice department is to inspect railway mail and air mail services. Naturally, too, Mr. Farley is entertained by local officials and party chieftains, so he can hardly be called an expense to the government in that sense.

The present chairman of the Democratic national committee could never be sufficiently compensated by the new deal. He has given his time and energy to the Roosevelt cause in unstinted measure. He has personally visited nearly every state, he knows more individual chairmen of state, county, and city organizations than any man in politics today. He keeps them in line.

One does not have to accept the Farley doctrine—"To the victors belong the spoils"—or his conception that a party organization must follow the President blindly, right or wrong, to say that one of the principal reasons why Mr. Roosevelt has so much strength in congress is because of the skill and ingenuity used by the postmaster general in seeing that appointments to offices are strategically allocated by the administration.

Nor does one have to agree with Mr. Farley's views on national policies to say that he may make one of the most effective and successful executives in the business world if he turns his talents in that direction.

In a way, it is regrettable that Mr. Farley doesn't go back to New York state and run for governor there next year. There are occasionally suggestions that he may do so. Mr. Farley has a congenial personality. He makes and keeps friends. He has so long been in the habit of bowing to the will of his chief, President Roosevelt, that it would be interesting to see him in some office like governor where he would have complete responsibility on his own to the electorate.

There is some reason to believe that Jim Farley has at heart no more sympathy with some of the unsound economic theories propounded by the new dealers than have most of the conservatives. As a matter of fact, the so-called "young liberals" hereabouts have no faith in Mr. Farley as a liberal, no matter how much he utters liberal doctrines in his public speeches defending the administration.

Logically, the Democratic nomination for governor of New York belongs to Mr. Farley because President Roosevelt does the nominating of governors in the Democratic party nowadays, and this is a prize which Mr. Roosevelt ought not deny his campaign manager if he really wants it.

There are rumors, however, that Mr. Farley is making plans to be in business for several years to come and is not going to seek any public office once he retires from the postoffice department.

The administration will not seem the same without Postmaster General Farley. To him politics is a game in which all seems fair until the people by so many votes say otherwise. His idea has been that reforms cannot, of course, be carried on by a party out of power but only by a party or candidate successful at the polls. To win elections, therefore, he feels is everything. Just why he sanctioned the sale of campaign books to corporations has never been explained but outside of that mistake, and it is a serious one, nobody can say that Jim Farley has played the political game any differently than the political managers of the Republican party in the past. In fact he has improved on the Mark Hanna and Penrose tactics and modernized the technique.

Statesmanship politics as such will be developed by true liberals, but nevertheless many so-called liberals right here in the idealistic new deal have been glad enough to accept with characteristic political expediency themselves the fruits of Jim Farley's toil.

What It Means:

Conflict in China Seen by Beatty, Associated Press Writer, as War Over Investments.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—In trying to understand what's happening in the Far East today, keep this fact in mind:

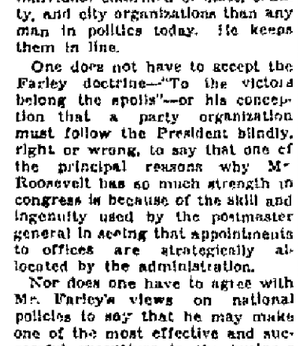
Japan in five years probably has become the biggest single investor in China, including Manchuria.

By "investor" I mean the citizens of Japan, and by "investments" the capital they now have in Chinese commerce, trade and industry.

Foreign investments in China at present stand about like this:

Japan	$1,500,000,000
Great Britain	1,250,000,000
United States	250,000,000
France	200,000,000

Germany, Russia, Belgium and the Scandanavian countries hold most of the rest of a total close to $3,500,000,000.



THE SPLIT
This is the way the foreign dollar in China today is divided among the principal investors.

These approximate figures represent a consensus of totals struck by various "experts."

Peculiar Business

Now, investments often have a good deal to do with fights between nations. They have a particular and peculiar bearing on the Sino-Japanese "war," because the investment of money in China is nothing if not peculiar.

Peculiarity No. 1 is the way China was opened to foreign investors. China was minding her own business, such as it was, when gunboats "convinced" her she wanted to play ball with the rest of the world.

Having forced China into the international ball game, the Japanese and the western nations found the China of a hundred years ago was not an ideal place for investors.

Ground Rules

The Chinese have their own rules of business conduct, for one thing. Business is a personal thing to a Chinese, and he clothes it with social ambiguities. Business is entirely above the compulsion of law, he believes, and it is rather low and stupid to keep accurate accounts. This, to the Chinese, corporate finance and its laws are a form of odious business practice.

That's why, even today, the necessary capital to develop China on a par with western nations is lacking. That's why ancient China is still a nation rich in undeveloped natural resources.

China, besides, has had so much internal strife that, in the past, an investment one day might be an ex-investment tomorrow. When the Boxer rebellion brought that problem to a head, the foreigners tried to achieve a smooth mixture of Chinese and foreign investments by pouring in the ingredient known as extraterritoriality.

That means a foreigner may enjoy the protection of the laws of his homeland in another country.

Adds Up To Trouble

Extraterritoriality couldn't happen in the United States, but if it could, it would work like this:

New York City financial district would be figuratively roped off, and labelled "International settlement." The rest of the nations of the world would take charge of the area, operate it under their own laws and maintain their own courts.

Extraterritoriality — and certain treaties by which China accepts responsibility for protecting foreign investments in railways and other properties controlled by the government—have made Shanghai the "pearl of the Orient."

A Western Way

Japan, like the western nations has played these devices for all they are worth, and still her investors in China encounter the active resistance of the Chinese and the passive resistance of trade rivals.

Now Japan has gone into China to protect her investments, and increase them. That seems to them to be the effective way to beat down opposition and stamp out the natural reluctance of the Chinese to develop their financial structures along western or Japanese lines.

In other words, Japan is using the same formula to convince the Chinese of the error of this way that was used by the western nations when China was opened to world investment and trade.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, Sept. 4, 1927.

Mrs. Harry C. Milton was hostess to a company of friends and relatives at a picnic supper at her home on Green Camp pike celebrating the birthday anniversary of Mr. Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Collins celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a family dinner at their home on Pies avenue.

Marion churches concluded their summer program of union services with a service at Epworth M. E. church, addressed by the Epworth pastor, Dr. B. L. George, on the subject, "Finally, Brethren."

A daughter was born at the City hospital to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Corbin of LaRue.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, Sept. 4, 1917.

Petrograd and the whole northern end of the eastern battlefront was seriously menaced by the Germans as the result of their capture of Riga. The Twelfth Russian army, forced to evacuate the city, retreated toward Wenden.

Mrs. C. W. Davidson and daughter returned from a visit in Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sage and son John returned to their home in Cincinnati after a visit with Mrs. Sage's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Blow of Garden street, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Myers of Bain avenue.

The council of national defense issued a letter appealing to Marion women to patronize the "way market" which had been established in the old city hall at Church and Prospect streets for the purpose of giving Marion county farmers and produce growers a better outlet for their crops.

The feature picture at the Marion theater was "Skinner's Bubble" starring Bryant Washburn and at the Grand George Beban had the leading role in "The Cook of Canyon Camp."

The mercury in Marion went down to 48 degrees above zero during the night, the city's first taste of autumn weather.

The Whatsoever circle of the King's Daughters held their first meeting of the fall season at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Symes on Bellefontaine avenue.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thomas of Corning, former residents of Marion.

Those who quit their proper character to assume what does not belong to them, are for the greater part ignorant of both the character they leave and of the character they assume.—Burke.

A Note of Sympathy

Kindly but Futile Move Made in Behalf of Income Tax Law's Forgotten Man.

INCOME taxation, in September, seems almost as remote as next spring's blooms. Yet, dollar by dollar, the money now is being earned on which the government will feed and fatten in the fiscal year 1939-1940.

Sen. Bone of Washington introduced, on the last day of congress, a bill permitting income taxpayers to deduct medical expenses for themselves and families and to charge off not more than $250 a year for educating a child. This is progress—when a man's wife and children become as important as his cows and horses in figuring tax deductions.

Westbrook Pegler, columnist for The New York World-Telegram and other Scripps-Howard newspapers, commented as follows:

The proposal probably will come to nothing, because it deals particularly with a class of citizens of no political unity, the salaried employes, who are deemed to have no rights because they are neither dirt poor nor filthy rich. Nevertheless, it does express an unexpected note of sympathy, and for his few kind words the senator may expect a star in his crown.

On the Spot

The class of which I write is the tax collector's meat. These people draw salaries which are matters of plain, accessible record, and their deductions and exemptions are few and small. They have neither holding companies nor incorporated yachts, they can't make loans to themselves and charge off amortization because they haven't the money to lend, and they have neither 17th century barns nor Christmas tree ranches with which to confuse the short and simple record of their earnings and disbursements from year to year.

They are allowed a deduction of $2,500 for mamma and papa and a matter of about $1.10 a day for the support of each kid up to the age of 18, at which time the parents are expected to kick them out to become little bums, if they must, while the big heart of the government enfolds the children of the great, nontaxable, ill-kept third and tries to gentle them through the difficult twilight between youth and maturity.

It's a Puzzle

I can't figure out why the son of a suburban salesman or chief clerk is supposed to be ready to get out and root, hog, or die at the age of 18, while the son of an underprivileged character over beyond the tracks is deemed to be a tender shoot and the object of the nation's solicitude and special care at the same birthday and for some time after.

The internal revenue people will admit that the farmer, for all his squawking, is one of our most reluctant taxpayers and that medical men and small merchants are almost equally difficult. The farmer extends his acres or his buildings or adds to his stock and calls it an outrage when the man with the brief case sharpens up his pencils and tries to show him where he owes the U. S. A. 5384.36, with accrued interest, on a profit that he picked up, but forgot to declare, two years ago.

The doc takes in an indefinite sum of 2's, 5's and 10's, and, anyway, unless he is a society doctor with a rotsy number in a nurse's suit, to look up his patients' credit rating to see how sick they are, he isn't much of a hand to keep records.

No Alternative

Small merchants also have a tendency to keep records on the back of a paper bag, but the man who gets a certain amount every week and has no problems of buying and selling, spoiled stock, depreciation, bad debts and interest with which to play parlor tricks on the agents is the one who has no alternative but to toss his money over the transom and walk on by.

Yet his health and the health of his family are items of very heavy expense, particularly if he's good pay, as he usually is, being subject to garnishee.

But the subject of our little essay may not subtract the cost of contributing another little American to the land he loves nor the price of the funeral in case of disaster. His own health is absolutely necessary in his circumstances, for without it he loses his earning power and his family goes on the town for quarters, heat and rations at a dead loss to the government. But he isn't allowed to deduct as operating expense the cost of keeping himself in shape to scuffle for the pay check without which he could pay no tax at all.

Hard to Manage

The education of his kids is supposed to be the business of the community to which he pays school taxes, but what with graft, neglect, bad planning and all, he will take it on himself to give them a few little extra licks in a pay school if he can possibly manage. He gets no allowance for their education at any time, however, unless some genius in the treasury has figured out a way to educate, house, feed, clothe and doctor a kid and buy him an occasional ball bat or pair of skates on a fraction of a cent over $3.09 a day.

Crime by Suggestion.

In Chicago, only a few weeks after a baby was taken from its foster mother, another baby was snatched from its carriage.

The motive is important only to the police who had to solve the crime. The psychological reason for the crime is more serious. It is, obviously, a crime by suggestion.

It is a problem in mass emotion. After the Lindbergh kidnaping there was a wave of kidnapings. After any gang murder in a concentrated population there are other gang murders.

So it is with emotional America. One crime arouses the curiosity of those criminally inclined. If the crime gets much attention it is sure to be followed by other similar crimes.

Chicago police could have been almost certain there was to be another baby stolen. But unfortunately they knew not where, nor when, nor how.

When humans learn to control their emotions and to view the misdeeds of others objectively, one crime will not beget another. And the tide of crime will recede to the proportions of a less emotional country, England, for instance.—Toledo Times.

"With me it's different. When they yell 'Help'—they're really drowning!"

In New York

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—Turning out one of these diddle-de-wonk columns—such as this—one never knows which way a thought will jump. For instance: Vaguely in shifting the typewriter carriage I thought of referring to a sundown we saw near Long Beach last evening.

But almost everything has been said about the exquisite red rapture of a dying day. Then in a stop-skip manner this vagrant fancy came bob-bob-bobbing along: The Saturday Evening Post is showing great editorial vigour under its youthful editor, Wesley Winans Stout.

That job was literally seven league boots to fill. I recall playing poker a time or so with Stout in younger days. He was an amiable fellow but not one you would picture for the big job he now holds. Editorial brilliance often flares with opportunity.

Poker reminds me that one of the surprising new publishing sensations—not Henry Luce—is an ardent addict of draw. Two days every month he knocks off work and joins a group of friends in an Atlantic City hotel for a 48 hour stretch of the game. Napping when exhausted.

The most enthusiastic poker players I have ever known were cartoonists—the late Clare Briggs, Jean Knott and H. T. Webster. A runner-up was Dr. George Dorsey, who wrote "Why We Behave Like Human Beings." Poker was the only gambling game, in fact the only game of any sort, I ever really enjoyed. But I was cured of it in a sickening manner.

It was like this: Our poker crowd consisted mostly of newspapermen and artists. When I was a press agent at the Hotel Majestic we usually gathered around the green baize there in what was elegantly called the Louis XVI Room every Friday night. Some one brought a personable young fellow into the game and he came regularly, winning with astonishing consistency. Several grew suspicious. One finally caught him cheating and it was decided at next session he would be exposed. Came the dramatic moment. Trapped, he turned the sickly white of a flounder's belly and confessed. He offered to pay back and we learned he was the support of a mother, wife and sister—all invalids. He was desperate. Our poker gang broke up and I never touched a card from that day.

One of America's great reporters and one least heard about by the general public is Jim Mills, of the Associated Press. Most of his activities have been in Europe where he has covered every important assignment in the past 25 years. He is white haired now, gentle, kindly, and has delivered many scoops but never brags of such triumphs. Such reporters do not expect applause for work well done. They are the real journalists of whom the profession is mightily proud.

Few emotions make one feel so glowy and floaty as to learn someone well loved and believed estranged has just been busy. For a year I have been troubled about such a friend. Several phone calls and letters were cordially answered but evasive. The other day came one of the finest letters from him I ever received. He has been in deep trouble—financial, domestic and physical. He would not burden others and remained aloof.

All Expenses Paid

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Railroads in older days gave passes to state legislators and congressmen and paid the cost of junkets to points of interest until the thing became somewhat of a national scandal. Laws put an end to that type of railroad goodwill building.

But now the colonies, Hawaii and the Philippines, have found a new wrinkle of the old game. They finance all-expense visits by members of congress, entertain them lavishly and seek to induce in them a sympathetic understanding of island problems.

That view of it may be a trifle harsh on the islands. Weary members of congress and their wives, sons and daughters may be entitled to the relaxations the insular possessions provide. What better contribution could the islands make, in that case, than to provide a sea cruise to soothe senatorial souls? Or the placid peace of an island beach to heal congressional scars?

Islands Foot Bill.

Perhaps the islands have no second string motives. It is easily remembered that the railroads insisted they had no motive other than to oblige when they supplied railroad passes to state legislators.

Two score or more members of both houses made the tour of the Philippines 18 months ago, headed by Vice President Garner. This summer a dozen or more are going to Hawaii. The Philippine government footed the bill on the first trip, and in keeping with this now established custom, the Hawaiian government will pay the way of the visitors headed for the white sands of Waikiki.

At this point it is well to mention items of interest about the islands and their legislative problems. When gold was revalued in 1934, the Philippine government had about $56,000,000 on deposit in American banks as currency reserve. The Philippines claimed the $23,000,000 profit resulting from revaluing gold, although by law the family nest egg of the average American was paid back only dollar for dollar.

Congress saw it the Philippine way in 1934 and approved payment but in 1935 refused to appropriate money to pay. Senator Adams of Colorado tried in 1936, the year of the Philippine tour, to put through an act repealing the Philippine claim. The senate agreed with him, although it was in conflict with administration wishes; but the bill was never taken up in the house, and the claim still stands. Adams won senate approval again this last session and the bill is still pending in the house, awaiting action next session. The islands also are interested in sugar quotas and import taxes.

Idea for States.

Hawaii has a special interest in sugar legislation, hoping that next session congress will give the island refiners a lift by permitting them to ship to the United States a larger quota of refined sugar.

These all-expense visits may have little or no effect in obtaining a friendly vote from congress. But if they do, why shouldn't Florida finance an all-expense trip for congress in an effort to get her ship canal? Or Maine put 'em up for two weeks at Bar Harbor in return for Passamaquoddy power?

That is an entertaining prospect.

Today in Ohio History

Written for The Associated Press

After Gen. John H. Morgan was defeated in the Battle of Buffington's island, Meigs county, Ohio, and finally captured in Columbiana county, Ohio, he was held as a prisoner of war in Ohio penitentiary. He escaped, however, by digging his way into a ventilator duct and returned south to head a guerrilla band. Before his raids in Indiana and Ohio, Morgan had been commissioned a colonel in the Confederate army and led troops in Tennessee. After his Ohio episode, he made one too daring raid and was shot by federal troops. He died on Sept. 4, 1864.

Shop Provides Complete Plumbing and Heating Service

Bathroom Installation by Self Shop

The above photograph shows a recent bathroom installation made by the Thurman Self plumbing shop. It is in the new apartment on Mt. Vernon avenue, formerly the C. C. Fisher home. The building is owned by J. E. Oliphant of South Vine street. The Self firm handled all the plumbing and heating installation in the building. All copper piping was used for plumbing as well as heating equipment.

THURMAN SELF IS PROPRIETOR

Operates Business Formerly Conducted for Many Years by Probst Bros.

After more than 12 years with Probst Bros. on East Center street, Thurman Self now is operating his own plumbing and heating business here under the firm name Thurman F. Self, Plumbing and Heating Contractor.

Mr. Self's shop is located at 116 North State treet where he moved not long ago after purchasing the plumbing and heating installation and service business conducted for many years by Probst Bros.

With the fall and winter season rapidly approaching Mr. Self is in a position to offer prompt service in the repair and installation of all types of heating equipment. He handles the Well-McLain line of hot water heating equipment and also installs and services hot air furnaces.

A building heated with Well-McLain boilers and radiators has an even temperature in every room due to the arrangement for forcing circulation to any part of the building, thus doing away with cold rooms and chilly corners. Because of this feature heat from radiators through which circulate hot water, vapor or steam is economical.

Another advantage of this type of heating equipment is that room temperatures are not affected by varying winds as the circulating of the heating element through the pipes and radiators is not influenced by outside air currents.

Most radiator installation now is in recesses in the walls, according to Mr. Self, thus leaving unobstructed all floor space.

Another item handled by the Self firm that is meeting with exceptional approval by suburban and farm residents is the Deming electric water systems manufactured by the nationally-known pump makers. They are the ideal arrangement for homes where city water systems are not available. The outfits are available in sizes that will pump from 250 to 3,000 gallons of water an hour.

The Deming water systems bring one of the greatest conveniences of the city to the rural areas for they provide running water in any part of the house or the barn, make possible a bathroom.

In the way of plumbing the Self shop offers a complete service in both new installation and repair. A complete line of standard plumbing fixtures is carried all of which can be installed with copper piping that resists corrosion and lasts a lifetime.

THIS ROOF WILL STAND RIGORS OF WINTER RAIN, WIND AND SNOW

In the months immediately ahead the roofs of many Marion county homes will get the real test of rainy weather, roaring winds and driven snow. Some will be found wanting in all these, but the owner of the Bellefontaine avenue residence shown above may rest assured that this roof will stand every test and do so for years to come. It is a copper-bound asphalt installation. It is laid with non-rusting copper nails in such a manner that the corners of the shingles will not curl in any kind of weather. The roof was laid last spring and during the hot months the sun has cemented the shingles into one solid sheet. The Superior Roofing Co. of North State street did the job.

NEWS OF STAGE AND SCREEN—MARION THEATER PROGRAMS

Two Top Rate Pictures On Week's Palace Bill

"Broadway Melody of 1938" and "The Road Back" Headliners On Local Screen Program.

A current hit picture, "Broadway Melody of 1938," co-starring Eleanor Powell and Robert Taylor, opened today at the Palace to remain through Tuesday. "The Road Back," reviewed by a motion picture trade magazine as "among the truly great pictures of this or any other season," will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A continuous program will be offered Labor day patrons.

"Broadway Melody" introduces six song hits, the work of Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed who wrote the words and music for the first two "Broadway Melodies." They are "Your Broadway and Mine," the finale number with a spectacular New York background, "I'm Feeling Like a Million," used by Miss Powell and George Murphy in their park dance, "Sun Showers," "Pair of New Shoes," sung by Miss Powell during her solo dance in a Broadway night club, "Follow In My Footsteps," a novelty number done in a horse stock car by Miss Powell, Murphy and Buddy Ebsen, and "Yours and Mine," a love song sung by the stars on the rooftop of a New York boarding house.

Murphy was the dancing star of such Broadway hits as "Good News," "Of Thee I Sing," "Roberta" and "Anything Goes." Besides those mentioned, the cast includes Binnie Barnes, one of England's most beautiful contributions to the American screen; Sophie Tucker, "Last of the Red Hot Mamas," Judy Garland, sensational child singer, Charles Igor Gorin, favorite singer of the Hollywood Hotel program, Raymond Walburn, Robert Benchley, Willie Howard, Charles Crapewin and a chorus of hundreds of girls. Miss Tucker revives her famous number, "One of These Days."

As the daughter of a horse breeder gone broke, Miss Powell backs the last of his racers by working in a night club to keep the oats box full. Taylor, as a struggling young playwright, buys the horse for her, there is a race, and the horse and romance win.

Another Sneak Preview

Another "sneak preview" has been arranged for by the management for Wednesday night, George E. Planck, manager, made special arrangements this week to preview a picture from the same studio which furnished him with the hilarious comedy, "Topper," which was the theater's first of such added attractions.

The picture will be from the same studio and will be of the same high caliber, Mr. Planck announced. It will be shown once only, about 9:10 p. m. The general release of the picture will be fairly early this month, but because of heavy bookings in September it probably will not be run until late in the month. As yet it has not been booked by any theater in the state, he said.

The Wednesday regular feature picture will be a return of "A Family Affair," a good program picture featuring Lionel Barrymore, Spring Byington and Mickie Rooney. Those who see the picture the Wednesday night will be entitled to stay for the "sneak preview."

"The Road Back" is the film adaptation of Erich Maria Remarque's sequel to "All Quiet on the Western Front," in which the author decried the deplorable futility of war and the crying problems of its inevitable aftermath—rehabilitation.

The story was followed closely from the intimate accounts of life in the trenches during the closing days of the World war and those depicting the quiet, yet confused, atmosphere of the middle class German post-war home, to the sweeping battle chapters and the emotional hysteria which gripped the citizenry and returned soldiers when mass morale was lowered to the breaking point.

MUSICAL BILL COMING BACK

"On the Avenue," Starring Dick Powell and Madeline Carroll Booked.

"On the Avenue," the Irving Berlin musical starring Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll, will return to the Marion theater screen Monday and Tuesday, on a double bill with a melodrama, "Whispering Smith Speaks," Alice Faye, the Ritz Brothers, George Barbier, Alan Mowbray and Stepin Fetchit have important roles in the Irving Berlin picture, in which there is much comedy and music. Two of the six song hits are "This Year's Kisses" and "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm." Miss Carroll, the richest girl in the world, is the subject of a hilarious take-off staged by Powell, Miss Faye and the Ritz Brothers. Infuriated, she takes her revenge on Dick for the public humiliation, but in a surprising scene Dick finds a way to clear up the misunderstandings and bring the romance to a happy conclusion. There will be continuous shows Monday.

Warren William, Mady Correll, Kitty Glancy and Edward Ellis play the principal roles in "Midnight Madonna" which will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday. The picture is the first for Miss Correll, a Broadway favorite. Whether cut and dried court methods are sufficient to weigh the fitness of a mother to have the custody of her child is the problem discussed in the picture. Mystery in which comedy is paramount is predominant in "Murder Goes to College," booked for the same program, Roscoe Karns, a newspaperman, and Lynn Overman, a private detective, a fine comedy team, solve the mystery of the murder of a professor in the office of the dean of a large university. The victim had found a way to control the policy racket by mathematics and one person thought it better to put him out of the way.

An Edward Everett Horton comedy, "The Man in the Mirror," and a Tex Ritter western, "Sing, Cowboy, Sing," will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Genevieve Tobin plays the leading feminine role in the Horton comedy.

"The Man in the Mirror" is a gay and fanciful farce comedy dealing with the extraordinary situations which eventuate when a man's reflection in a mirror suddenly takes life and physical form and assumes an individual existence on its own account. Miss Tobin, his wife, finds her husband's reflection far more comfortable and intriguing than the original, which complicates matters considerably.

HOGS ENJOY FREE BEER AFTER CRASH

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 4 — One of the unusual features of a motor freight truck accident in which a Negro named Newgrape was burned to death and another Negro, Lenner Morgan, seriously injured 10 miles southwest of here, near Irwin, early Friday, was the fact that a large number of hogs in a field into which barrels of beer rolled became intoxicated on the beverage.

Hungs came out of a number of the barrels and the hogs greedily drank from puddles of beer. The hogs wobbled and a few dropped over and took naps. When farmers drove them away a number fell down and had difficulty in getting up to resume a zig-zag course across the field.

It was reported that some members of the large crowd that gathered rolled a number of barrels into a nearby corn field and had some free refreshment.

TROUSERS, MONEY STOLEN FROM FARM

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 4 — Investigation is underway by Delaware county officials into the theft of $11.15 in cash and a pair of trousers from the Al Rodefer farm north of Delaware. The theft occurred Thursday night.

Ever since "TOPPER," patrons have been asking, "When are you going to have another Hollywood Sneak Preview?"

Thanks to the splendid turnout for our advance peek of "TOPPER" last July—and for the excellent cross section of public opinion obtained on the "opinion cards."

The M. G. M. Studio has selected the Palace for another "sneak" showing WEDNESDAY, Sept. 8th.

Once again a picture is being rushed to Marion in advance of general release, to obtain a typical Mid-Western audience reaction.

FOUR CAR ACCIDENT AT UPPER SANDUSKY

Defiance Man Gets Into Difficulties in Freak Mishap But None Hurt.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 4—Charles Badger, 44, of Defiance, found himself in a bad predicament here Friday at 6 p. m. when a freak accident involved four cars, damaging fenders on two and practically demolishing a third. No one was injured.

Badger had just turned from the north around the public square traffic light onto East Wyandot avenue. He noticed a car approaching from the south and "stepped on the gas" to get by in time. However, after he found himself out of danger with that first car, he found his Ford sedan heading for a second car, a Dodge sedan, driven by Neal Angeline, of Coldwater, Mich., who had just stopped at the east side of the square.

Badger attempted to whip his car back to the left side of the street, but the fenders of the cars connected, doing considerable damage. The collision sent the car hurtling across the street where it struck a third auto, a Chevrolet coupe, belonging to Robert Rosebery, here, who had parked his car at the curb. The coupe, which was badly twisted out of shape and damaged almost beyond repair, leaped over the curb onto the sidewalk, the Badger car, nicking the fender of another car parked at the curb, owned by Harold Weimandy here.

TWO GOOD FILMS ON STATE BILL

Joe Brown Comedy and Romance Featuring Pat O'Brien Headline Week.

Two entertaining films, the Joe E. Brown comedy, "When's Your Birthday," and "Stars Over Broadway," a romantic comedy with music featuring Pat O'Brien, James Muir, James Melton and Jane Froman, will be on the State bill Sunday and Monday. There will be continuous shows Labor day. The Joe E. Brown comedy is concerned with astrology and the planets, which are said to govern the lives of persons born under the different signs of the zodiac. Brown becomes a professional astrologer who believes implicitly in the infallibility of his chosen profession. Through a series of lucky accidents, everything that happens simply strengthens his conviction that every human is definitely tied up with the planets. Marian Marsh, Fred Keating and Minor Watson play principal supporting roles. In "Stars Over Broadway" Frank McHugh furnishes much of the comedy as an absent minded and over-zealous song plugging friend of O'Brien, a theatrical agent who is about to say goodbye to the world when he hears a hotel porter singing and puts the youth under contract. Melton is the youth.

"The Case of the Lucky Legs," with Warren William in the role of Perry Mason, detective, and one of the series of Conrad Nagel pictures, "Navy Spy," will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday. Besides William, the cast of "The Case of the Lucky Legs" includes Genevieve Tobin, Patricia Ellis, Lyle Talbot, Allen Jenkins and Barton MacLane. William is called on to solve the murder of the man who promoted a contest to find the girl with the most beautiful legs. The killing is tied up with a triangular love affair in which the winner of the contest, Miss Ellis, her boss and her doctor-sweetheart are involved.

A romantic adventure film, "Daniel Boone," with George O'Brien in the title role, and "I Promise To Pay," a story of the loan shark racket featuring Chester Morris, Helen Mack and Leo Carrillo, will be shown Thursday through Saturday. The story from the life of Boone revolves around the period of 1775 when the settlers in the eastern colonies were looking toward the western horizon. Boone leads 30 families across the Cumberland mountains, a vast untenable territory in the southern part of Kentucky, to the fertile Blue Grass region in the neighborhood of what is now Lexington, Ky. Esplsodes of the expedition and of the fight to maintain the settled territory make up a large part of the story.

FIELD TRIALS SLATED MONDAY

Gov. Davey and Wooddell Among Notables To Attend Hardin County Event.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Sept. 4—All was in readiness today for the 11th annual running Monday of the supreme sporting event of the dog world—the National Leafy Oak Coonhound Field trials for the championship of North America, a silver loving cup and some $2,000 in prizes.

Col. Henry J. Pfeiffer, the sportsman-business man manager of the Leafy Oak trials each year since their inception in 1927, predicted one of the finest hits of action ever witnessed by fans. "We have also arranged to eliminate any feeling of ire at the management by permitting heat money, when there are no qualifications, to revert to the grand final purse instead of to the mangement as formerly," Mr. Pfeiffer asserted.

Buckeye Jack, owned by J. M. Champlin and Sons of Wilmington, O., will be back to seek his third straight championship. The odds against this being done is something like 100 to 1.

At the last minute the management limited the number of dogs for the event to 110 and said that there would be 14 elimination heats, three semi-finals and the grand final event. The U. K. C. pup derby will be a feature of the evening.

Gov. Martin L. Davey will be present to present the owner of the winning dog with the silver loving cup that goes with the championship. Lawrence Woodsell, state conservation commissioner, and other notables of the Ohio sports world, also will be present.

Forty-two employes will be on the grounds to conduct one phase or another of the chassis while judging duties this year will be relegated to Jesse Baker of Huntington, Ind., Jay Gladstone of Rochester, Mich., and J. W. Street of Allegheny, Pa., at the tree; with Holmes B. Lingo and Donald Sams in charge of calling line winners.

The first heat will start about 8 a. m. Monday and the events will be completed about 5 p. m., according to the schedule that has been prepared. The pup derby would start about 6 o'clock.
